READING MATTER EVERY PAGE.

The Rights of the South.

This is a popular theme in the South, and patriotic editors find a pleasure and profit in assuring us that the South is very much oppressed and injured, and ought to bestir herself; said editors being ready and anxious to help her.

It is true that the South has had great provocation from a part of the North; and has had occasion to resist encroachments. The refusal to admit Missouri into the Union without a compromise, and the refusal to do so even then, on the part of a large portion of the Northern vote, is a great grievance. The attempt to shut the whole South out of territories acquired from Mexico, by an act of Congress, was another. A long contest, and an angry one, was carried on upon these subjects. But what has been the result? The South has obtained all she demanded; all she has a right to ask from the federal government. Her equal rights in the territories are formally acknowledged. Anti-slavery provisions in territorial bills are obsolete. Slave States have not been refused admission into the Union for the last thirty years. Some of the States have nullified, as far as possible, by State authority, the fugitive slave law; but that has been done by a party from which we have nothing to expect. We have had enough in the North to do us justice in the federal government; and in the States wherever the Democracy have had the power, these nullifying laws have been stricken from the statute books. This took place last winter in Ohio, when an anti-Lecompton Democratic legislature repealed all the statutes intended to obstruct the execution of laws for the benefit of the South.

We cannot make war on the free States, and threaten to dissolve the Union, for what individuals do against law, much less can we regard the railings of Abolitionists; for we can say as hard things of them as they can utter respecting us. On that subject we are balance accounts. Whilst the federal government recognizes the equality of States in its acts, the conduct of a few States or individuals is not a matter to make an issue about in federal politics.

We are, indeed, told that Congress would not admit Kansas with a slave State constitution, imagine no reason for the refusal of Kansas, except that the constitution recognized African slavery. They find it very convenient to ignore the obvious reason which lies on the surface, upon the principle that what is obvious cannot be true.

Congress saw that this constitution was not the act and deed of the people of Kansas. That was a sufficient reason for rejecting the application from Lecompton. It would have been deemed sufficient, at any time in the history of our government, for the rejection of an application with any sort of constitution.

So far Congress from refusing Kansas on account of slavery, that even the violent anti-slavery party agreed unanimously to receive her with one condition precedent; and that was, that the people of Kansas, at the polls, should adopt the constitution.

This offense, on account of the refusal of Kansas, is only a pretence; and the clamor raised is to get up a reputation of zeal for the South. "We want a united South," shouts the patriot. Well, the South will be united when her interest or honor is involved; but she has no interest, or honor either, in uniting upon a false issue; a united North would be quite as popular with the burning sectional patriots of that region. On the contrary, we want the North and South united. We are for no sectional party. We believe the South has all her rights in the Union acknowledged; and she is not oppressed nor wronged. The majority of this Union will do justice to North and South. Only keep away the insane clamor of sectional demagogues, who are for themselves, not for the South; and who hesitate not to seduce the South into a position that can't be defended, and where her friends in the North can do her no good. It will be recollected that a united South can do nothing against a united North, except to go out of the Union, or submit to sectional domination. To this alternative these friends of the South are struggling to reduce her, with a fair prospect of success; unless the people of the South put a stop to the progress of infatuation.

The editor of the Journal, the other day, put up or down a column of figures, showing a formidable increase of federal expenditures; and forbade to infer that they made a very bad showing for the Democracy. We should be obliged to him if he would give the people of Louisville a column about city expenditures in the same time; or, to be more moderate, he need not go back beyond the birth of Sam.

The editor of the Journal wastes nearly three columns, to show that his friend John Bull stands up to the right of visitation. We are not surprised that he is sensitive on this point; because his credit, and the value of his services to his friend John, depend on it. We shall let the editor enjoy the notion that his services are not ignored, for the present; but it is a delusion, and he had as well make up his mind to the mortification that lies before him.

Forney, of the Philadelphia Press, is for conciliation; but wants some condition precedent. One is remarkable. "Let," says he, "the editor of the Washington Union be induced to abandon the effort to prove that Lecompton is not inconsistent with the Cincinnati platform." We judge from this that Forney has mispent his time watching the effort.

Jim Lane, of Kansas, has been discharged from custody. He killed a man about as good as himself; and killed him in self-defense, if the witnesses are to be believed.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

W. A. Ellis, candidate for Sheriff, will address his fellow-citizens of the city of Louisville as follows:

At Denhard's, cor. First and Jefferson streets July 10, at 8 o'clock, p. m.
At the Market House, cor. Market and Floyd, July 12, 8 o'clock p. m.
At the Upper Market House, July 13, 8 p. m.
At the Lower Market House, July 15, 8 p. m.
At Portland, July 16, 8 p. m.
At Capt. Knapp's, Green st., July 18, 8 p. m.
At the cor. Ninth and Main, July 20, 8 p. m.

THE CITY.

STEALING.—Wm. G. Shackles stole a case of mathematical instruments. Judge Johnston held him to bail in $500 to answer a felony.

John Magee was brought before the City Court for falling into the river, from a steamboat, while drunk. The Court dismissed him.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT, DRUNKENNESS, &c.—James K. Secord, the case we mentioned yesterday, was held to bail in the City Court in $100 to answer for disorderly conduct and carrying concealed weapons.

Frank Dearing, James Hurley, D. McLean, B. Mahan, Ann Logan, John Morris, Matilda Salisbury, and Henry Stimpel, were up for being drunk and disorderly. The Court let Salisbury and Stimpel off on their own recognizances—the rest were held to bail for their good behavior.

Wm. Kennedy was presented before the City Court yesterday, on the charge of passing counterfeit money—this case was mentioned yesterday. He was held to bail in $500 to answer.

John Dush carried about his person, concealed, a deadly weapon. The City Court held him to bail in $300 for six months.

Thomas Cochran had made an assault on Pat Gallagher; the latter was sick in bed, and Cochran made an onslaught upon him with a skill. The cause of the assault, however, was that Gallagher had cut Cochran and knocked him down. The Court discharged Cochran.

We are indebted to Frank Madden for a copy of yesterday's Cincinnati Gazette. Frank receives the Gazette every evening by express, and has it for sale.

Some of the boys sent up, yesterday afternoon, a very large paper balloon. It made a beautiful ascension, and hung over the city, at a considerable height, for some half an hour.

LOST CHILD.—At midnight last night the bell-man was out hunting for "a little girl lost, about three years old." Poor parents, we felt for them. Where are the stations for lost children?

PINER.—Dr. W. Lee White was yesterday fined $100 for engaging in bogus lotteries; this was a docket case. Williams, who was indicted with White, was not present, and his case was continued.

We have received the first number of the Mount Vernon Record—a neat and well-arranged little paper, "devoted to the purchase of the home and grave of Washington." It is published in Philadelphia, monthly, at fifty cents per year. Address S. F. Watson.

MR. B. M. HARNEY'S FURNITURE, HORSE, CARRIAGE, CO., Farming Implements, and a crop of Garden Vegetables, is to be sold this morning by Mr. C. C. Spencer, at Mr. Harney's residence, three and one-half miles from the city, on the Bardonia turnpike, on four months' credit. See advertisement.

We learn that on Monday, one firm retailed forty-nine half barrels of beer in Preston's woods—would have sold much more, but the supply gave out. How much was sold at other out-door retreats on that day we have not heard, but suppose the quantity was immense.

We are under obligations to Mr. Alexander C. Sinton for favors. By the way, Mr. Sinton, who is now and has been for many months with J. M. Armstrong in the clothing business, at the corner of Main and Fourth, is one of the most enterprising among our young business men, and if in business for himself would soon make his mark with the public.

NEW MUSIC.—We are indebted to the composer, Prof. Horn, for copies of some new music just published at the house of Tripp & Cragg. They form part of a series of favorable pieces for the violin and piano—No. 7. A Terzetto, theme from Freischütz. No. 8. Chopin, theme from the same. No. 9. A National Gallop. No. 10. Waltz—Philopines. No. 11. Polka—Serenade. One more number completes the series. Young musicians and students would do well to get these pieces.

TERRIBLE DEATH.—About five o'clock last evening, a young German named Louis Rau, met his death in a very shocking manner. He was employed in the cotton and woolen factory of S. Bronnell, on Market, between Sixth and Seventh, and attempted what he had previously accomplished several times. A band on some of the machinery slipping off, he attempted to replace it without stopping the machinery. He succeeded; but in doing so, his arm was caught, and he was instantly carried up to the ceiling of the room, and through the space between the shaft and the ceiling, scarcely large enough to admit a man's body. Before he could be released, he had been crushed through two or three times, and life was extinct. His head was bruised and shattered, and his body much injured. We understand that he was to have been married next week. His terrible death will be a severe blow to his "widow, not yet wife."

The following dispatch, not sent to this city, we find in the Indianapolis papers of yesterday.

TRENTON, N. J., July 6.—An accident took place on the Belvidere and Delaware Railroad at a quarter past 6 o'clock this morning. A going to some misunderstanding, the freight train from Trenton was run into by the coal train between Lambertville and Trenton, breaking both engines, and crushing several cars.

The conductor of the freight train and the fireman were dangerously injured, and several others slightly. No one killed.

The editor of the Journal wastes nearly three columns, to show that his friend John Bull stands up to the right of visitation. We are not surprised that he is sensitive on this point; because his credit, and the value of his services to his friend John, depend on it.
